

The count down for the Sculptures and Designs in Wood-2007 is only 10 weeks away, and as of today I am getting a little nervous thinking things could be falling through the cracks.

With both the Woodcarver show and our new headquarters located in Mauldin South Carolina; it will give us great opportunity to grow our club.

The annual show will give us tremendous exposure to the upstate communities, but it could also become a disastrous embarrassment if all of use do not get involved and have good participation of club members.

In an earlier publication of the Carver, Harry Deaton encouraged each of us to have at least one carving ready to enter into the show competition. Hopefully we have taken this challenge seriously and are putting the final touch to our entrée. If not there is still time to get carving!

Charlie Arnold is taking care of the raffle drawing and prizes. He is collecting carvings donated by the members. He has about 10 people committed to this project, but still needs many more. If you have a piece you would like to donate, or are willing to carve one. Let him one of the officers know. This is a good fund raiser for the club.

We still need some volunteers to work:

the ticket booth

Place signs and posters at business's, Stores, etc. all through the upstate.

Set up Friday evening 3-6 pm

Take down Sunday evening after the show

Set up the sound system

Please invite your friends, relatives and co-workers

If you know of other carvers or woodcarvers clubs- they can get more information on the website
